

Do you like magical books that keep you reading and reading and you never want to stop? Well, this book, the Memory Thief by Leonie Agnew, is the perfect book for you. It is an amazing mixture of fantasy and adventure, and you will find yourself sucked into a different world, with surprises around every corner.

The plot in this book surprised me as it changed from how it started. The story took an unexpected turn which made it much more interesting. It involves a boy troll called Seth, who eats memories. He's not ugly, just humanoid. He lives in a park and gets himself involved in some business with a human named Stella. Soon, they become friends, but Seth is finding it hard not to eat her memories and he hopes she does not find out his secret. The plot thickens from there.

Leonie Agnew has astonished me with this awesome book. She did well on both description and story. The character's point of view really lets you know how he feels.

My favourite part was.... I did not have a favourite part, due to the book being too good. Some parts were better than others but overall, it was amazing. I recommend this book to ages 9 to 13.
