

Is it a snow rabbit? Is it a yeti? Oh no, it's a leviathan!!! Welcome to the fantasy world of Frostheart, created by Jamie Litter where you will encounter many new and interesting beasts.

Inside the walls of the Fira stronghold there were many children but out of all the children of the Fira there was a strange boy. The boy's name is Ash, a song weaver. Living in the Fira stronghold all music is banned and singing or playing music will set you in exile.

So when the secret's out Ash tries following a lullaby hoping to find his parents, Pathfinders, who left when Ash was young, leaving behind only a lullaby for Ash to find them. Meeting new people and making friends from strongholds across the world.

Frostheart is one awesome adventure novel with a fair share of sad parts with happy ones. Frostheart is suitable for readers aged from nine to thirteen and their parents. The world-building is amazing, I would like to go there. I couldn't stop reading it because it is such a great book. The descriptive words were very interesting such as 'missed by a furs breath' and more. Frostheart is full of cool, fun and friendly mysterious child characters. I personally enjoyed the book and I hope you will too.

Hold on tight to your burning sun stone, Yeti or even your rock hard Redroot this is one tough story to topple over for a long time.
