

The Memory Thief

By Leonie Agnew

Seth is a boy that lives in a garden, with iron bars all around. When the sun is up, Seth is a stone statue, but when the moon is out, he goes exploring the park grounds. One night Seth meets a girl called Stella, but he keeps a big secret. During the night, Seth is a troll that feeds on human memories. Will Seth and Stella's friendship last?

My favourite part was when Stella and Seth first met just before dawn. Stella was searching for her cat, Max, when Seth heard her. Seth wanted to help, so he followed her voice.

I liked the way that Leonie Agnew described what happened so well that it was like I was there with Seth and Stella. "wild creepers cover the bars, splashing purple flowers into every gap and digging their fingers into clumps of lilies. I take another step, one foot sinking into the damp grass, as I push back the branches." I also like how Kieran Rynhart did an incredible job with the illustrations.

I completely fell in love with this book. I knew that from the first word this would be one of my favourite books ever. I was so devastated when I reached the last page. All my friends and family want to read it because I've told them how good it was. Even my teachers want to read it!

I recommend this book for kids aged 9-12.

HAPPY READING :]
