

I enjoyed this book, because it was very descriptive. I thought the author was very good at creating cliffhangers; there were many and they were my favourite parts of the story. One thing that I find with many fiction books, but especially this one, is that I cannot stop reading in the middle of a chapter. If you do, it leaves you wanting to get back to it with urgency to carry on. This book would be absolutely perfect as a gift for someone you know that is a reasonably good reader and is quite imaginative. I recommend this book for ages 10+. This book was amazing at painting a picture in my mind, the images were as clear as glass and left me excited to continue reading. In conclusion, the book was amazing and I hope the author writes a sequel.
