

I think that this book is for people who like adventures in the snow and imaginary monsters and big yetis. The author of this book did really well and used their imagination. For example they made up monsters with eyes called lurkers and I can picture them in my imagination, they were big and live under the snow.

My favorite part of the book was when a boy got attacked by the imaginary monsters, but I won't say any more in case I spoil the story.

I like adventures but not really in the snow. I also like animals and sometimes even true stories. If you like adventures in the snow, you should read this book it is definitely for you. I think boys and girls would like this book, but not babies, so 8-9 year olds.

I would give this book 8/10.
