Navigating the Stars

Witi Ihimaera

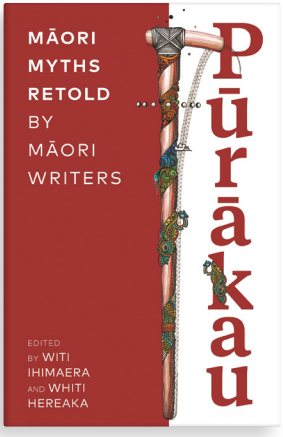

From master storyteller Witi Ihimaera, a spellbinding and provocative retelling of traditional Māori myths for the twenty-first century.

In this milestone volume, Ihimaera traces the history of the Māori people through their creation myths. He follows Tawhaki up the vines into the firmament, Hine-titama down into the land of the dead, Maui to the ends of the earth, and the giants and turehu who sailed across the ocean to our shores . . . From Hawaiki to Aotearoa, the ancient navigators brought their myths, while looking to the stars — bright with gods, ancestors and stories — to guide the way.

Witi Ihimaera's lively Matariki story translated into te reo Māori by Heni Jacob.

E kimi ana a Te Kōkōrangi i ētahi pia hou tokowhā hei ako i ngā kōrero o Matariki me te maramataka. Kōwhiria ana ētahi tama tokotoru, me tētahi kōtiro, he pani, ko Ariā te ingoa. Tohe ana a Ariā kia haere anō ko tana kurī haunga i tōna taha. Ka āhua hōhā a Ariā i ngā akoranga, kāore hoki ia e pai kia tohutohungia ia.

Engari kua noho mōrearea te iwi. Taihoa pea rātou ka tino raru i a Ruatapu Te Pukurua. Āe rānei mā Ariā anō te iwi e whakaora?

A lively story with stunning illustrations that reveals the tradition of Matariki.

The Astromancer is looking for four new apprentices to learn about Matariki and the Maramataka calendar. She chooses three boys and an orphan girl,

Aria, who will come only if she can bring her smelly dog. Aria, though, is bored by the lessons, and she doesn't want to be told what to do...

Patu: The New Zealand Wars

Gavin Bishop

PATU (to strike, hit, beat, kill or subdue) is a stunning large format hardback, in the same dimensions as the award winning Atua. Complete with foldout maps of key pā, villages and battle sites, it brings to life a complex period of Aotearoa's past that has urgent relevance for our present and future.

In researching the book Gavin Bishop has also discovered his own past and has woven in some of his familyhistory - the lives of William Mackay and Irihāpeti Te Paea Hahau Te Wherowhero, eldest daughter of King Te Wherowhero of Waikato, and the way these sad events impacted them and their descendants.

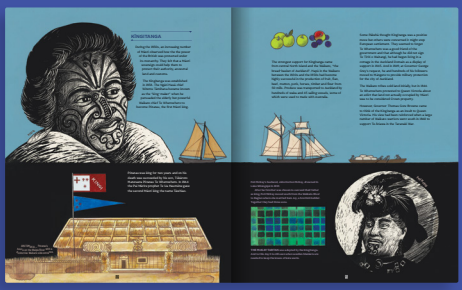

Patu is set to become a timeless classic which will engross adults and children alike and is a must have for every home, library and school.

Gavin Bishop

Gavin Bishop's stunning, once-in-a-generation compendium introduces readers to the pantheon of Māori gods, demigods and heroes, and explores Aotearoa's most exciting legends from the Creation to the Migration.

This can sit alongside Aotearoa and Wildlife of Aotearoa (his other beautiful illustrated non-fiction books), but takes a more narrative approach, and includes breakouts and captioned details in the illustrations. It is also a wider, squarer format.

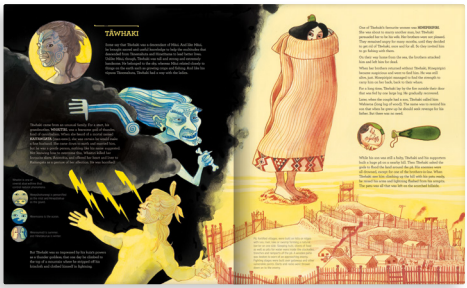

Throughout the narrative, Gavin deftly weaves in contemporary tikanga, demonstrating both their spiritual origin and their close relationship to science and the natural environment, as well as historical detail about pre-colonial Māori life. This makes it a brilliant book for teachers and students, applicable to numerous curriculum strands.
