Goodnight Glow Worms Aura Parker

PLOT SUMMARY

From the creator of the delightful Meerkat Splash comes a cuddly, snuggly bedtime book for 2+, full of joyous, playful illustrations and bouncing rhyme - with a perfect ending to send little ones happily off to sleep.

*Goodnight, Glow Worms shining bright,
Time to dim your Glow Worm light.
Glow Worms gleaming, beaming round,
Can't switch off and can't wind down.*

Five young glow worms who live together in a cave are having trouble switching off their glow worm lights for sleep, until they realise it's a goodnight kiss they're missing. Then one by one the glow worms switch off and go to sleep. But Glow Worm Yellow can't go to sleep until she finds her lost blankie! She searches high and low through their cave home and eventually finds it in a very unexpected place...

ABOUT THE CREATOR

Aura Parker is an illustrator, writer and designer who creates delightful picture books, prints and textiles. Her work is joyful, imaginative and brimming with details to explore. Aura Parker's storytelling through words and pictures inspires imagination, courage and confidence in young readers. Aura works with watercolour, gouache, pen and coloured pencil with digital composition. She works from a studio in Sydney. Goodnight Glow Worms is her second picture book with Penguin Random House, following the delightful Meerkat Splash.

CREATOR'S INSPIRATION

If you have ever seen glow worms in real life, you will know how enchanting they can be. They look like a magical, starry night sky glowing in the blackness! I have seen them in Australia and New Zealand quite a few times now.

When I was a kid, I had terrible trouble getting to sleep. At bedtime, I would constantly get out of bed, request snacks (usually cheese, yes I love cheese) and insist on more and more bedtime kisses. When I look back, I think I probably drove my parents nuts! Maybe I was just a little scared of the dark, but I have certainly never been able to switch off easily.

Goodnight Glow Worms joins these two ideas together, the wonder of glow worms and switching off for bedtime. I also have three kids of my own who are very close in age. When they were little, I had many dramas trying to get everyone to sleep at the same time. Do you ever have trouble getting to sleep?

I had a lot of fun writing this book, and drawing glow worms, they make me laugh. My glow worms look like little light bulbs with heads. Bugs make interesting characters. It is fun making them expressive, as they have an extra set of limbs to work with - even antennae can be expressive. In the first drafts, the glow worms were not going to sleep at all! After a lot of rewriting I eventually got all those glow worms off to sleep. I wanted the rhyme to sound soothing, and the repetition to be calming.

Do you think this story would help you sleep?

KEY STUDY TOPICS

English

- Read the writing on the back of the book (the blurb). What do you expect the book will be about? Do you have any questions? Are those questions answered in the story?

- How many characters are in this story? Do you think things other than people can be characters in a story? How does that work? Can you think of other favourite stories that have non-human or non-living characters?
- Find three words in the book that are new to you. Try to work out what they mean from the context (the way they are used and the words and pictures that surround them).
- Read the notes from the Creators Inspiration. Do you have any special rituals when going to sleep at night? Describe them.
- Activity: Create a book trailer for this book.

Visual Literacy Discussion

When Glow Worm Yellow loses Blankie, the text doesn't ever tell the reader where it is. Blankie is nice and clear so the reader can easily find it, even though Glow Worm Yellow can't. This is a good example of text and images working together to tell the story. Did you see where Blankie was straight away? Or did it take a couple of pages?

Compare and contrast page 6-7 (Tired Glow Worms, snug in bed...) with spread 10-11 (Goodness, Glow Worms, what's gone wrong?...).

- How has Aura used the layout of the page to help tell the story?
- The sense of calm and order of 6-7 where they are all neatly in bed, is disrupted in page 10-11 where we see the Glow Worms are half off the page, their eyes are boggly, wired and overtired. The shapes made by the Glow Worm lights change too, from calm in 6-7 to flashing and crazy busy by 10-11.
- How does this use of colour and line help tell the story?

On page 12 there is no text, (the pillow fight).

- What do you think is achieved by having four small illustrations here?
- Perhaps a sense of time passing or that the Glow Worms have been awake for a long time.

Science: Facts About Glow Worms

- What are glow worms? They're not actually worms, they are the larvae stage of a fungus gnat (a small flying bug wings, in the same family as flies and mosquitos).
- How big are they? The larvae are only a few millimetres long – barely able to be seen, if it wasn't for their light.
- What colour are real glow worms? In Goodnight Glow Worms, we have five different coloured glow worms, but in real life, all glow worms give off a pale blue-green light.
- Where are they found? They are found only in Australia and New Zealand in dark wet places like caves.
- How do they glow? There is a chemical reaction in their see-through abdomen.
- Why do they glow? To attract bugs to eat, like mosquitoes, midges and cockroaches.
- How do they catch them? With sticky silk threads (similar to spiderweb) which hang down, like fishing lines or lures.
- What do glow worms turn into? They will eventually go through metamorphosis (just as a caterpillar becomes a pupae in cocoon then turns into a butterfly, but glow worms turn into a gnat – which looks like a large mosquito).
- Are glow worms really as nice to each other as in Good Night Glow Worms? Glow worms are territorial (they guard their own space) and will fight with, and even eat their neighbour if they get in the way. Yikes!
