

Spoilers redacted

- / -... -...-...- / -... -...-...- / -...- / .-...-... / -... / .-...-...- / -...- / .-...-...- / .-...-...- / .-...-...- (This book opened my eyes to what the war was really like.)

To kick off this review I'm gonna list some of my favourite parts of the book. The part I liked most was when Frank and A'ata were attempting to flee from the Japanese defences hunting them down, I felt sure the zero would shoot down the canoe. The reason I really liked this particular part of the novel was that the suspense was crazy. Personally, I thought Frank might

It was a huge relief when . Another part I quite liked was when

A thing I think the author did well was keeping you on the edge of your seat the whole way through. I did like the book 'cause you always needed to know what happened next and the description made you feel like you were really there. If I were to recommend this to a certain age group it would probably be intermediate students - people my age.

- Riley, 12, Hamilton